What Is a Career?
And What's a Prize Fight?

CALL MONEY—which means gambling money for stock speculators—cost only 3 per cent yesterday. But speculators were not happy. The new tax law would cut taxes and bonus speculators. But it would make income tax returns public property. The speculators don't want that, for reasons best known to them, so they fight the bill, and may kill it. It's hard to please everyone.

MADDO SAYS he has no Democratic nomination clinched, says certain, so he's happy. "At Smith says 'no,' and his committee of ladies—every one of whom will vote, and you may say to that—say no, it will be 'At Smith, Yammay, under Smith's orders, has not chosen any evening head, but will run along under a committee, directed from behind the scenes by Smith—until after the convention."

A L SMITH is an able politician, but he has a competitor across the Hudson River from him to Frank Hague, Mayor of Jersey City. The latter knows politics from the cradle, and has a considerable advantage over Smith in working for some one else. Hague means that Governor Siler of New Jersey shall carry off the prize when McAdoo and Smith kill each other off.

And thus has Hague had his fight.

MISS GILDERSLLEE, dean of Barnard College, tells the girls that marriage is not EVIDENCE for women now. Each girl must have a career, as well as a husband.

What is a career? Hawthorne's job was music. Michelangelo's was art. Did not their mothers have a career when they created them? Or must they also paint pictures and write music? Is not the creator as great as the thing created?

Mothers are the creators, men are only the product, depending for their fame on what their mothers give them.

GUYTON BRANCH, at it. Diana, would like to know "what a prize fight is." In connection with a first-class prize fight about to be "pulled off" in his State on May 21.

A PRIZE FIGHT is a fight for a prize, in these days a BIG prize, often hundreds of thousands, sometimes a million. A prize fight authorized by public officials is a business of laws against assault and battery. Because it is profitable, promoters are permitted to break the law, setting a bad example before youth, gathering together criminals from far and wide.

A LEO IT is a disease to the community that tolerates it, whether for profit or for "pleasure." Prize fights are permitted because promoters are intelligent. They believe in spitting "fifty-thirty" or "divine" law the winners three ways, not falling to take in public officials, through whose indifference of complacency they owe their profits.

That's a good enough answer to the question of the Governor of Indiana.

IT MAY be added that prize fighters, with extremely few exceptions, from the heavyweight champion to the lightweight champion, were extremely eager to keep out of the war. They believe in fighting for "big money," fighting for your country is something different.

SCOTCHCORN, earnest patriot, reminds you that the first man that ever flew was an American. The first that crossed the Atlantic through the air was an American. The first that ever flew from America Continued on Page 11, Col. 3.

WOMAN ACCUSES MORRIS OF KISSING GIRL AT MUSCLE SHOALS

SENIATOR CHARGES NOT

Row Nearly Breaks Up Hearing of the Committee on Henry Ford's Offer

Washington, May 24.—An angry quarrel between Senator Norris of Nebraska, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, and Mrs. E. A. Edmundson of Decatur, Ala., whom he accused of bringing a blackmail plot against him because she testified he had kissed a girl at Muscle Shoals, nearly broke up the committee's hearing today.

"That story of yours is a falsehood," Norris shouted. His face made red by the laughter of the other Senators of the committee, "I know a blackmail plot when I see it. If you were not a woman this would not be the end."

"I didn't kiss that girl," Norris added, his words coming in a low, hoarse voice. "I asked you if you could not leave the Ford offer. You said yes, and then you said no. I am a man of honor, and I am not going to be accused of bringing a blackmail plot against me because she testified he had kissed a girl at Muscle Shoals."

"You remember that day in the morning when we were in the room together? I asked you if you could not leave the Ford offer. You said yes, and then you said no. I am a man of honor, and I am not going to be accused of bringing a blackmail plot against me because she testified he had kissed a girl at Muscle Shoals."

WAR DEPARTMENT ACCEPTS AMERICAN'S BONUS BEAU OFFER

BLACKS TO BE READY SOON

Will Be Forwarded to All Points of Country as Soon as They Are Printed

Washington, May 24 (Universal).—The offer of the bonus newspapers to aid through their Soldiers' Friend departments, in the distribution of official application blanks for the soldiers' bonus was gratefully accepted by War Department officials.

The final draft of the official blank has been formally approved and it is expected, the blanks will be ready for distribution about next week. Blanks will be forwarded to all parts of the country in proportion to the number of men furnished for the war by the various localities.

Meantime, the most that the veteran can do to expedite the administration of the law is to sit tight and wait for his blank. Any letters to government departments will serve only to complicate matters and delay final result.

The veteran has only to await the distribution of the blanks, fill in as to the best of his ability, mail it to the War Department or the Navy Department, and then wait for the check of government administration. He will be sent a card acknowledging the receipt of his application.

In addition to the Soldiers' Friend Offices of the War Department, blanks will be available at postoffice, branches of the Red Cross, and Post of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and other service organizations. Recruiting of army and navy men, and other official branches of the government also will be blanked.

The War Department will maintain a bureau in the principal cities of the country to aid in the distribution of applications and to advise veterans in property filing of their blanks. Former service men in doubt as to any questions will be able to receive accurate information from these bureaus.

Experts will be prepared to look over the application blanks to see that they have been filled out in accordance with official instructions so as to pass muster with the government departments. Every blank may then be sworn to before a notary public and forwarded to Washington.

After that has been done, there will be nothing for the veteran to do except to await the arrival of the government post card acknowledging the receipt of his application. Thereafter, he need only sit tight until he hears from the government.

Even although Congress has yet to appropriate funds for the administration of the law, the government departments have gone virtually all the way in the work. The printing of the application blanks will be the last step in the appropriation bill as passed by Congress and signed by the President.

Departmental estimates covering the cost of the bonus during the first year already have been submitted to General Lee, director of the budget. Leaders in Congress are ready to expedite action on the appropriation.

ground, the policeman again thought his way upstairs, this time finding five-year-old Albert Dallamano. He carried the boy to the street and for the third time attempted to go up.

This time, however, flames were sweeping the stairway, cutting off all entrance or exit.

At the rear of the house Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LeClair, who had been sleeping with their children on the second floor, gathered the children up and herded them at a back window.

TRAPPED IN FLAMES.
There was only one means of escape. LeClair grasped his wife and rushed her out over the window sill, intending to drop her to the ground below.

In a last minute attack of fright, she clutched her husband about the neck. Husband and wife tumbled to the ground, but neither was seriously injured.

The four children, however, were left trapped in the burning house.

When the flames had reached the first floor at the rear, the children were rescued by a neighbor.

The fire department arrived at the scene at 10:15 p.m. and found the house a mass of flames.

The fire was caused by a gas leak in the kitchen, which had been discovered by the fire department.

The fire department is now investigating the cause of the fire and the responsibility for the tragedy.

U. S. Fliers Ordered by Soviets to Quit Refuge Point

Tokio, May 24 (A.P.)—Russian authorities on Bering Island, where the American aviators rode May 15, subjected to the Americans taking refuge in Russian territory. Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, acting commander of the flight, told the Associated Press today.

The planes were riding the choppy seas off Komandorski. Smith said when the aviators were told they must leave immediately.

"They were decent enough, but they did not like us very much," said the American aviator. "I told them we were not there because we wanted to be and that we would be glad to leave their country as soon as possible. We left out the stern and leaped off the next morning."

Across the Pacific, I know better than most the Americans' difficulties, their dangers and discomforts," Colonel Rogers declared.

Public Printer G. H. Carter Tells of Former Conditions in Washington Plant

Atlantic City, May 24.—A story of startling conditions in the government printing office in Washington was related here by George H. Carter, public printer of the United States before a convention of employers of printers of New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Carter was made public printer by President Harding three years ago.

First he took it up by driving more than a score of his leaders from the public service. Carter said a ring of race track sports and bookmakers operated without restraint in the government printing office, that track results were wired directly into the office over a private wire operated by a government worker; that more than 40,000 a day was played in bets by the workers, men and women alike; that many women were kept penniless by their almost daily losses, one even losing her savings bank; that said high officials countenanced the practices and frequently made money out of them.

NEW WAR FILM COVERS ALL FRONTS

"World Ablaze" Shows Action
Heretofore Withheld
From Public

Thousands have asked who was the World War. Many more thousands are uncertain as to which nation deserves the credit of the victory of the war. It is considered by the great leaders and diplomats of the different countries that America entered the conflict at the psychological moment and saved the day for their allied comrades. Now you can see it in thrilling, sensational pictures.

"The World Ablaze" will be revealed for the first time in the world on Monday night at Tremont Theatre. This picture reveals innermost secrets, showing how the World War was won by the allies and what desperate measures were adopted to obtain victory. It will be followed by the first presentation, showing the Italian, French, English and American troops in action. As a climax to the picture, hundreds of feet of film will be released on the screen, presenting the fighting element of the 24th Division of New England, featuring the boys of Boston and surrounding towns.

The film concludes with the triumphant march of the 24th Division upon their return to Boston as they marched through the main streets of the city.

Beauty Prize Winner Now Real Screen Actress

This is the story of "Miss Chicago" who broke into "The Ten Commandments," the photoplay at the Tremont.

A newspaper columnist two years ago decided on the prettiest girl to send to a beauty contest in the East, and Charlotte Hennecke, a high school belle, was Miss Hennecke.

William H. Fox, a Hollywood producer, saw her in a local publication and offered her the part of Helen in the movie. More than 2,000 girls sent in their pictures, but among them Miss Chicago, and for the second time in her short career she was crowned the winner. But this time it meant something for the latter secured her place at Glendale with "The Ten Commandments" extras.

"The Ten Commandments" made her instead of breaking her.

Quite a Spell of Time Used on Fairbanks Picture

It took eleven hundred and eighty-four years to write the scenario of "The Thief of Baghdad," says the Columbia Theatre. Of course, Douglas Fairbanks and his staff have not been working on it quite this long, but the spirit of the plot has been working down from the days of Adam the Just, or Haroun al Raschid, as the Mohammedans called him.

"The Thief of Baghdad" is the story of the old Arabian Nights story, said Mr. Little, who is the movie's executive editor, who guided the destinies of the Baghdad script. "The picture is a masterpiece of imagination and set the heart aflutter. Before the picture was touched, there were many months of painstaking research work."

SLAVE MARKET POLA'S BIG MOMENT

Europe's Brightest Film Star
Shows New Stuff in "Men"

Slave markets of antiquity have their counterparts in modern life, according to Dimitri Buchowetzky, whose production "Men," starring Pola Negri, enters upon the second week at the Fenway theatre.

Directed by the Russian director as his first American made picture for Paramount, "Men," contains a history of the amazing adventures of a French girl, "Clea," who begins life as a waitress in a class who slips and rises to fame as a dancer.

The role of "Clea" is played by Pola Negri, surrounded by a host of men who strive to win her favor for fair means or foul, she finally promises to give the privilege of her company to the highest bidder.

The scene which follows is probably the most interesting in the history of motion pictures. The camera moves from close to far where greed, passion, fear, avarice and desire are depicted upon each countenance. Bidding one against the other, these men play the modern auctioneer of the slave markets of ancient times.

Evenly Fears World Will Believe the Worst

"They've cast me as a vengeful avenger," said Evelyn Barker, the lovely brunette who plays the role of Valeria Narvosa, a movie actress, in "Bringing Up Father on Broadway" at the Arlington. "I don't know how being a vengeful" she was asked. "Well, of course I couldn't be an uncompromising as to say I don't, but I don't even remember. And I'm beginning to fear that people will think I'm like that in real life."

NORUMBEGA IS READY FOR STEP-OFF

Twenty-eighth Season of the Big Recreation Park
Starts Today

Norumbega Park opens for its 28th season today. It has for many years been famous for its attractive location on the Charles River, for its hills, trees and general natural beauty and also for the ride out either by trolley or automobile. The trolley, which is the most popular, has been making rides, games and other such attractions, until this season it has few rivals as a place for summer amusement. Norumbega is now making it ideal for picnic and outings. The ball field is in excellent condition; there are swings for the children, and everything else other features are canoeing, merry-go-rounds, ice cream and other rides, donkeys and goats to ride, a complete zoo, popcorn stands and many novelties.

The dars-devil, Paulus, who performs in a funny way one hundred feet high, is the first outdoor attraction for the opening of the season. Other similar attractions will be shown free during the summer.

Burlesque Sets Example in Stage Manners

"There is more good fellowship in Columbia Burlesque than in any other branch of theatrical entertainment," says Frank Anderson, who comes to the theatre in "Talk of the Town." Not only is this spirit apparent behind the curtain line but in the audience as well. Patrons of this form of amusement are not exacting in their demands, although the performers are of the highest class. The actors are light hearted people who respond enthusiastically to the efforts of the actor to amuse them. And they are generous with their applause at all times, making it a pleasure to play to them. Back stage the members of a burlesque are like a happy family. They are not possessed of time or money or exaggerated ideas, and they are charitable and sympathetic.

WIRING OF NEW SET IS VERY SIMPLE

Simple Wiring Diagram Aids in Placing and Wiring of Parts

The simplicity of the wiring for the Baby Giant Superheterodyne is clearly shown in the picture diagram today.

The diagram is designed principally to show the general location and relation of the various parts, so that you may know where they are laid out.

A step-by-step description of the actual wiring, of the type which proved so helpful to those who built Superhetes, will be given in the next issue.

The wiring diagram shown is that for use with a metal panel. This panel is connected to ground, and to one side (positive) of the A battery. This greatly simplifies the wiring.

SHORT WIRE.
If you note the socket filament connections, you will see that one of the connections on each socket is simply a short piece of wire to the screen which leads to the socket to the panel.

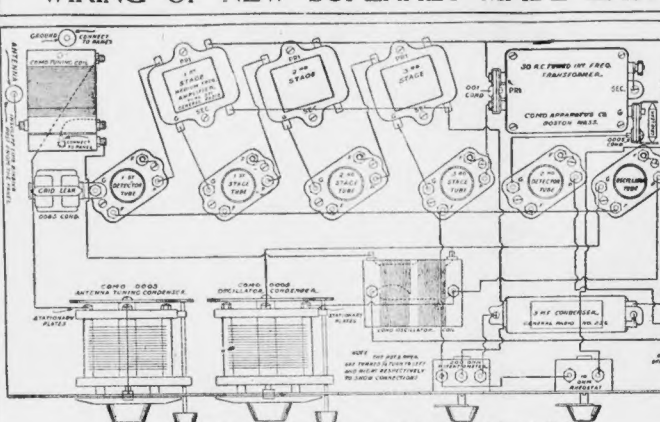

With a composition panel such as bakelite, etc., this filament connection will have to be made by a length of bus bar.

The coil on the left is the antenna tuning coil. The construction of these coils will be described Monday, or they may be purchased complete.

ANOTHER DETECTOR.
There are two detectors in a Superheterodyne. The first detects the incoming signal exactly as in an ordinary one-tube set. The output of this tube combines with the output of the oscillator tube to form a frequency much lower than the original frequency of the signal, but still above audio frequency.

This is amplified through the

WIRING OF NEW SUPERHET MADE EASY

PICTURE DIAGRAM OF BABY GIANT SUPERHETERODYNE

Not only the wiring, but the relative position of the parts is shown in the above picture diagram, which is so clear that the youngest novice should have no difficulty in following the wiring and laying out the parts. The sockets and transformers are slotted so that the wiring master rheostat are familiar lines of appearance. The transformer is also familiar, although these are designed for lower frequencies than those used in ordinary broadcast reception.

Monday the winding of the two coils, detector and oscillator, will be described. Today's diagram should be carefully preserved.

The following parts are needed for the construction of the Baby Giant Superheterodyne:

- 1 General Radio Plate Sockets
- 1 General Radio Med. Pres. Transformer
- 1 General Radio Pentameter
- 1 General Radio Rheostat
- 3 250K Bakelite Diodes
- 2 Dial Indicators
- 1 Oscillator Coil
- 1 Antenna Tuning Coil (Winding of coils to be described later)
- 1 2 M. F. Condenser
- 1 20 K. C. Coum. Int. Pres. Transformer
- 2 2000 Variable Condensers

A New Development of Tremendous Importance to the Radio World

WITH the increasing popularity of the multi-tube radio receiver, and the resultant necessity for frequent and costly "B" battery replacement, there has arisen a great need for a less expensive, more reliable source of plate current supply.

The Research Laboratories of the Dubilier Condenser & Radio Corporation have for many months carried on exhaustive experiments under the direction of Mr. Harry Houck, in the endeavor to perfect a compact, thoroughly efficient unit which would transform ordinary electric light current—either A.C. or D.C.—into steady, noiseless plate current (ordinarily supplied by "B" batteries) suitable for operating all types of receivers and all types of tubes.

This has now been accomplished!

The Dubilier Condenser & Radio Corporation announces

THE SUPER-DUCON

A "B" power plant of dependability, one of the most important contributions to the development of radio reception since the beginning of broadcasting.

The SUPER-DUCON supplies smooth, direct current, without any objectionable "hum," to all types of tubes in any service, including the detector tube.

The SUPER-DUCON is "hooked up" in exactly the same manner as "B" batteries.

Taps can be taken off at various voltages to meet any circuit requirement.

The SUPER-DUCON makes unnecessary the use of "B" batteries and supplies unvarying power from your electric light socket at trifling cost.

Further details as to various models and prices will be announced at a later date. In the meantime, to those desiring further information, a booklet will be mailed on request.

LABOR BANK IS QUESTION VALUE
OPEN WITH 1000 OF NEW TAX BY ACCOUNTS COMPARISON

Major Curtis, Governor Cox, Fire Commissioner Glavin, the president of all the banks in Boston and other city and State officials attended the opening today of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers National Bank at No. 60 Levee street.

From the moment the doors opened, a steady line of depositors streamed in and officials estimated that about 1,000 accounts will be the opening day's record.

The first depositor in the savings department was William A. Stone, who sent his deposit from Bristol, Penna. Central Zone. The first depositor in the commercial department was William H. of the Walter E. Hamilton wholesale furniture company, Boston.

Major Curtis followed closely with a deposit.

The bank was banked with flowers, most of which were sent by the other banks of Boston. Warren, Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, chairman of the board of the new bank, headed the reception committee that welcomed the great crowds of visitors.

President Kenneth J. Ferguson said that officials of the bank were overwhelmed by the kindly spirit of both the citizens of Boston and the heads of the other banks.

Mr. Stone issued the following statement:

"The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' National Bank of Boston, which opens today, is the first bank in the chain protected by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and which now reaches from New York and Boston to Spokane and Tacoma."

"The opening of a labor bank in Boston is particularly fitting, for each bank has a reputation for conservatism which is essential to sound banking. It has been also the laboratory for more social legislation of a constructive nature than almost any other bank in the Union."

FREED BY SOVIETS

Tokyo, May 24 (A.P.)—Captain Meiji of the Japanese General Staff and Commander Minomura of the Navy, who have been held as prisoners of the Soviet government at Vladivostok for two months, have been released.

This, with promises of the early release of other Japanese there, eases the Russo-Japanese situation, which has recently caused the Foreign Office some apprehensions.

'DANCING' JUNKMAN BARS MA-IN-LAW

Mrs. Cora S. Butler Accused in Check Case

HERE IS THE DANCING JUNKMAN

FRED FAWCETT AND HIS FAITHFUL STEED DOBBIN

Everett man, by day, is an industrious junkman—the only Shinn-pure American "junkie" in Boston, he says—but at night he shines resplendent as a dancer. A few years ago he was engaged to marry Mildred Doherty (inset top left) but because of alleged espionage of his grown-up mother-in-law, who persisted in going wherever they went, the engagement was broken. Now Fawcett learns his former sweetheart is to be another man's bride and her mother and father plan to accompany the couple on their honeymoon. "I am glad it is not I," says Fawcett in carefully chosen English. "Witches-in-law are all wrong on honeymoon trips." Soon Fawcett will lead to the altar Miss Edie Hucson, a telephone operator, (inset top right) and he wants the all-time to have that no mother-in-law shall camp on their trail of honeymoon bliss.

CHICKIE

Seething Life of a Lovely
Boston Girl of This Strange TodayPART ONE
